General Workplace Development

General workplace development had been the achievement of the project management by managing my time appropriately. By planning my time and tasks together I was able to perform well even in short period of time. With the constant practice, I learned to manage the difficulty with the time management. I analyzed my progress on the time management along with assessing my professional skills. The understanding with personal as well as professional strengths and weaknesses assisted me to comprehend the way I could plan my task with the given time for finishing the work.
